March can still stir up lots of emotions for me. It's the month my mother died from metastatic breast cancer. I shared about my experience being a caregiver to my mother during her illness and death from metastatic disease in my memoir. I also shared about the fact I was not there during her final [...]Narcissistic mothers often have an iron hold on their sons. These mothers appear to adore their sons over their daughters and shower them with all of the attention and adulation.Parent's House . By: sjacks@uaig.net . I'm a big fan of your website, I love ghost stories although I'm not really sure I believe in ghosts.In The Betrayal Bond Patrick Carnes presents an in-depth study of these relationships, why they form, who is most susceptible, and how they become so powerful. He shows how to recognize when traumatic bonding has occurred and gives a checklist for examining relationships. He then provides steps to safely extricate from these relationships.
